Quincy Branch

- Michigan Week was celebrated with many enjoying Michigan trivia displays, Michigan color sheets etc.
- The President Lincoln Event was attended by a good number of people, which most exiting the train. A fewer number were dressed in period clothing this year.
- 20 people attended the "Quilts Talk to Me" program presented by Sue Houchen on May 19. She will present again at Quincy in February 2017.
- Central Elevator executed the weight test on our lift June 2.

- The Summer Reading Program sign-up began June 14 for PreK – High School children and will end July 30. Four Imaginative Art sessions are planned, along with the John Ball Zoo, Jim Merrill's Cup-stacking program, Tim Baldwin's magic show and Katrina Rodesiler will present a Swim Safety Fun program. McDonald's is providing a Kindle for the Middle and High School to enter to win and the Friends offer family prizes for 4th grade and under to enter to win.
- Friends of the Quincy Library have shifted their officer positions in the event that their president Carol Brown had a massive stroke last month.

- I would like to thank the board for allowing us the opportunity to take part in the public forum and the interviews for the new director. It was nice to hear from the candidates and to know the outcome after the interviews.
- Children enjoyed making a card for their mothers for Mother's Day. The children were given a sheet to fill out about their mother. It was fun to listen to their answers. I think the best question was how old is your mother. The answers ranged from 15 up to 70.
- I had my last Community Unlimited program for this session. The kids were fun to read to and they enjoyed a small craft each month. I will start up this program when school is back in session in the fall.
- My preschool visits have sadly come to an end for now. I have enjoyed every moment reading to these young kids. My Community Promotions person and I attended their graduation and listened to them singing many songs for their parents and guests. One song I really liked was the Graduation Song where the ending states, "They are off to the big kids school." Come September I will start my preschool visits again.
- Summer reading is coming together with lots of activities planned.
